

This thought of the day comes to from Fr. Matthew Kelly.

“The spiritual life is a long difficult journey, and we all are pilgrims on this path. There are men and women who have gone before us who are willing to serve as our guides...Their stories (saints) provide a living legacy of spiritual wisdom. If we seek their counsel...we will discover that they have faced and conquered many of the snares and pitfalls...If we open our hearts to their stories, we will learn from their successes and failures, and they will teach us and inspire us to become all we can be.”

Take time this week to choose a Saint you wish to learn from and read their life story and be inspired.
